An event to honor SPU faculty who have had their work published
July 1, 2017 to June 30, 2019.

Introduction and Welcome

Andrea Bubka, Ph.D.

Director, Faculty Research and Sponsored Programs

Congratulatory Remarks

Frederick Bonato, Ph.D.

Provost and Vice-President for Academic Affairs

Research Presentations

Brandy Garrett Kluthe, Ph.D., Department of Biology

Using Biological Dating Techniques to Verify Folklore

Beth Adubato, Ph.D., Department of Criminal Justice

Football and Domestic Violence: Tackling the Issues

Scott Stoddart, Ph.D., Department of English

The Queer Aesthetics of Tom Ford's Film Adaptations:

A Single Man and Nocturnal Animals

Presenters

Brandy Garrett Kluthe, Ph.D.

Brandy Garrett Kluthe attended Missouri State University and received a Bachelor of Science degree in Biology with a minor in Geology. Upon graduation she served as a United States Peace Corps Volunteer in Ghana, West Africa. Her primary role was as a forestry volunteer working with local farmers to improve soil fertility. Upon her completion of service she attended graduate school at Western Illinois University in the Peace Corps Fellows Program. During her time at Western she also served as an AmeriCorps volunteer, working in a rural Illinois community.

Dr. Kluthe attended the University of Arkansas as a Doctoral Academy Fellow where she earned her doctorate in Environmental Dynamics/Biology as well as a Graduate Certificate in Sustainability. Her research took her back to Africa, this time on the east side of the continent. Her research focused on the introduced Eucalyptus tree and the impacts it has had on the environment and society in the country of Kenya. Dr. Kluthe is currently working on allelopathic chemicals and the mycorrhizal fungi associated with introduced species.

Beth Adubato, Ph.D.

Beth Adubato is an associate professor of Criminal Justice. She has a B.A. in English, an M.A. in CJ, an MPAP from the Bloustein School of Planning and Policy and earned her Ph.D. in 2011--all from Rutgers. In addition to academic publications, she is the author of Grammar for Grownups and Life's a Mother, a novel about single moms.

Before academia, Adubato was a news anchor/reporter in Michigan; morning anchor in Erie; and the first woman to anchor sports in Birmingham. She worked for Court TV and News12NJ. She has appeared on Law & Order: Criminal Intent, Cupid, and The Following.

Beth is founder and executive director of the LINDA Organization, which collects toiletries, cosmetics, clothing, and children's items for women who have been adversely affected by the criminal justice system.

Scott F. Stoddart, Ph. D.

Dr. Scott F. Stoddart, Associate Professor of English, teaches courses in British and American literature and cinema studies.

He has published over 30 essays on the fiction of Henry James, E. M. Forster, F. Scott Fitzgerald and Patricia Highsmith; the musical plays of Stephen Sondheim; and the films of the Coen Brothers, Tom Ford, Jane Campion, Jack Clayton,

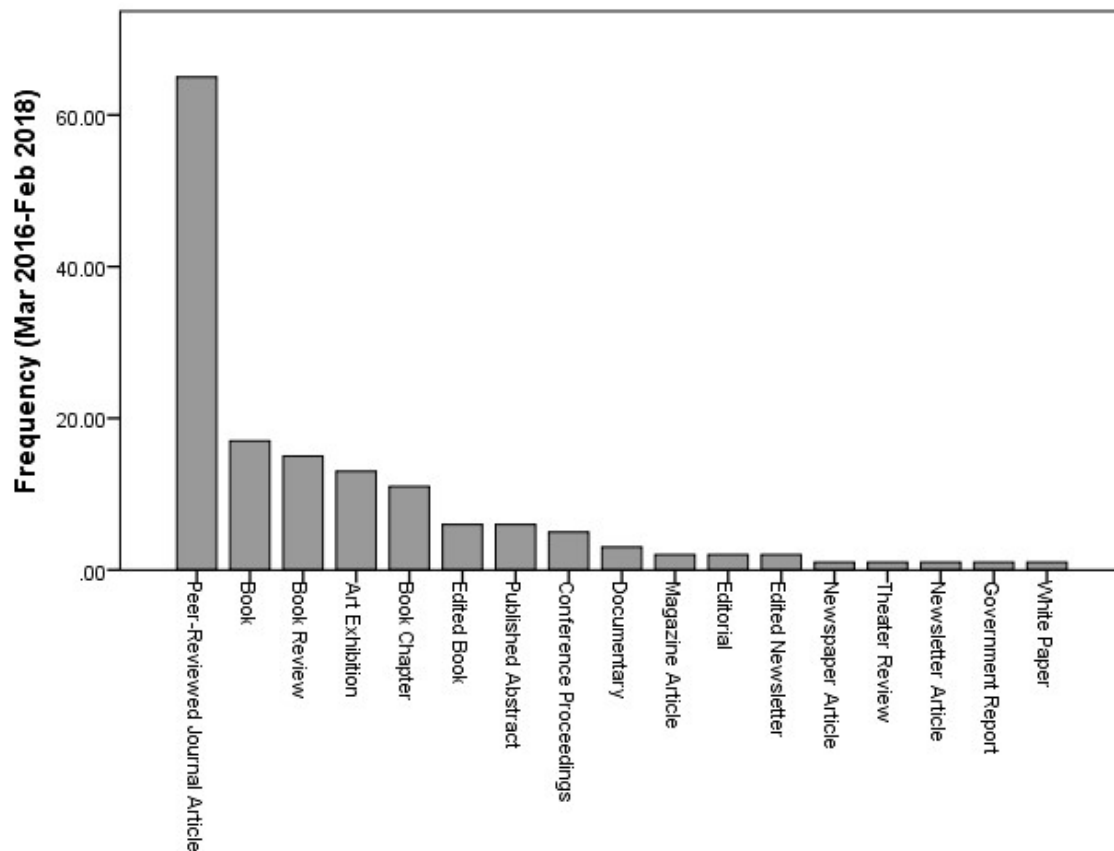

George Cukor, John Ford, Oliver Stone and Martin Scorsese. He has also published on the image of the president in Hollywood film and in television.

He is a host of the Sundance television series Love / Lust. He is also a contributing correspondent for the PBS series American Icons. And he was a featured contributor to the Smithsonian Channel series The Real Mad Men of Advertising.

He has published five books: Exploring Downton Abbey: Critical Essays on the PBS Series (McFarland, 2018); True Detective: Critical Essays on the HBO Series (Lexington, 2018), co-edited by Michael Samuel; The New Western: Critical Essays on the Genre since 9/11 (McFarland, 2015); Analyzing Mad Men: Critical Essays on the Television Series (McFarland, 2011); and The 1980s: American Popular Culture through History (Greenwood, 2006). Currently, he is readying another essay collection for spring publication, House of Cards: Critical Essays on the Netflix Series and at work on a book on the life and films of George Cukor, to be published by University of Kentucky Press.

Scholarship

During the last two academic years (July 1, 2017-June 30, 2019), products included 92 peer-reviewed journal articles, 32 documentaries, 20 book chapters, 18 published conference proceedings, 15 published abstracts, 12 editorials, 12 book reviews, 12 art exhibitions, 11 books, 11 magazine articles, 10 edited books, 3 newspaper articles, 2 government reports, 1 encyclopedia entry, and 1 theater review for a total of 252 products. Sixty-eight members including two librarians, two deans, the provost, two emerita faculty members, and one retired distinguished faculty member from ALL departments contributed to the celebration.
